

ELOOCK TO COACH W. & L. ELEVEN

Star Dartmouth Tackle Will Pay All Attention to Training Gridiron Warriors.

Lexington, Va., January 3.—Washington and Lee's football team, which in the last two years has only lost two games, will be coached next fall by Walter Benjamin Eloock, of Dorchester, Mass., who for three years played one of the tackle positions for Dartmouth, and who was one of the greatest line-men ever developed at the Hanoverian Institute. Eloock graduated from Dartmouth in 1912 after having played on the varsity eleven for three years, and last fall he assisted Frank Cavanaugh in the coaching of the Green and White combination. The previous fall he had charge of the Dartmouth freshman team, such stars as McAuliffe, Pubrett and Colby developing under his guidance.

Eloock, in his senior year at Dartmouth, was chosen by the experts as an All-American tackle. He prepared for Dartmouth at the Boston Public Latin School, playing on both the football and baseball teams. The former combination he captained.

Eloock, while a fine baseball player, he having caught for Dartmouth, will pay all his attention at Washington and Lee to the gridiron warriors. A former noted National League player being slated to coach the Blue and White combination's baseball team, Eloock, who was born in Boston on December 6, 1888, will reach Lexington to take up his duties as football coach on September 15. It is among the possibilities that Washington and Lee will get a place on the schedule of one of the biggest Northern colleges. Negotiations to this effect now are pending.

SOCCER FOOTBALL GAINS FAVOR DAILY

Description of the New Winter Sport Being Introduced Here and Notes Relative to Individual Players Who Will Oppose the Newport News Team Again on January 17.

The game of soccer football, which has recently been introduced in this city, is more widely played the world over than any other game throughout Europe, Australia, India, South Africa, and of recent years in the Northern and Middle West States of this country. It is being played by thousands of young men and boys. The laws governing the game are international, which make it possible for any team to visit a foreign country and go on into the field without any question or compromise of rules.

It is undoubtedly one of the cleanest and most strenuous games of ball ever invented. The laws are framed to conserve the sport with a minimum of danger to the players, the serious accidents that occur are very few and far between.

For the benefit of those who are not acquainted with the game and wish to gain a little knowledge, a few of the most important rules might be an advantage.

Eleven players constitute a team, consisting of five forwards who represent the attack; three half backs, whose duty it is to support the forwards and defense; two backs, the defense, and a goalkeeper, the latter being the only player who is forbidden the ball. A score is made by the ball being knocked through the goal, in any manner without the use of the hands or arms. After a goal is scored, the ball is placed in the center of the field and kicked off by the side against whom the goal was scored. If the ball is sent over the goal line without passing through the goal by one of the attacking side, the play is called a "kick-in." If sent over the goal line by a player on the defending side, the ball is thrown in at the point where it crossed the line, and a free kick allowed the attacking side. When the ball passes over the side lines, the same thing occurs, except the ball is thrown in at the point where it crossed, instead of being kicked. A player is not allowed to take up a position behind one or both of the opposing backs in anticipation of the ball being kicked in that direction. Such a play is termed an offside, and a free kick awarded from the place where the offense occurred. This is an important rule, but causes considerable perplexity to the uninitiated. For handling the ball intentionally, or otherwise, a free kick is the penalty.

The object of the players is to prevent the opposing side getting the ball and not to put individual players out of the game. The most effective way of doing this is by exhibiting tactics calculated to deceive the eye and mind of the opposition, such as quick kicking from any angle, sudden turns and transferring the ball to another player with the precision of a lightning bolt. To see a well-coached team in operation is indeed a fine sight, the whole moving in a body at lightning speed, the ball passing from one to another with the precision of a billiard ball in hands of an expert.

HOPPE ONLY CHAMPION TO RETAIN THE TITLE

Successfully Defended His 18-2 Trophy and Picked Up the 18-1 Championship by Defeating Morning Star—Results of Matches Held During Last Year.

With the exception of William F. Hoppe all of the billiard champions who held titles on January 1, 1913, were shorn of them, new titles holders appearing in the 18-1, amateur 18-2, pocket billiard and three cushion events. In addition to defending his 18-2 trophy against challenges from George Sutton, of Chicago; Koji Yamada, of Japan, and Calvin Demarest, of Chicago, Hoppe picked up the 18-1 championship by defeating Ora C. Morningstar, of Pittsburgh. This latter title he has not had to defend, but on February 3 at New York he will meet George Sutton, of Chicago, who has challenged for the 18-2 championship.

John Morgan, the veteran St. Louis player, came close to getting permanent possession of the Jordan Lambert trophy, but just before the limit of time expired Alfredo De Oro challenged and went from New York to San Francisco, where he defeated Morgan on May 29 by 30 points. The Cuban was challenged by Joseph Carney, of San Francisco, who had defeated him at Denver the year before. This match, which was played at New York, proved one of the most thrilling contests of the season, De Oro winning by seven points. De Oro's next match will be with Charles Horin, of Chicago, and will be played January 5, 6 and 7 at Chicago.

Although the Cuban will end the year champion of the angle game he will leave behind the pocket billiard title, which young Bennie Allen, of Kansas City, won from him last October. Allen's impressive showing in this tournament, his subsequent defeat of Charles Weston stamp him as one of the greatest pocket billiard players this country has produced. His next opponent will be James Maturo, of Denver, and Seattle will be their battle ground.

Joseph Mayer scored a brilliant winning in the national amateur championship played at Philadelphia, his high run of 150, high single average of 22 4-13, and grand average of 14 12-13 being the best recorded since the amateurs started play at 18-2. Morris Brown, the winner of the previous year, did not compete.

Fred Conklin, who finished second in this tournament, has since turned professional, following the lead of "Chick" Wright and Calvin Demarest, both of whom, like Conklin, had held the amateur title.

Championship matches during the year were as follows:

January 6-8—Alfredo de Oro, New York, retained pocket billiard title by defeating James Maturo, Denver, 600 to 563, at New York City.

January 9—Ora C. Morningstar, Pittsburgh, retained 18-1 title by defeating George Sutton, Chicago, 500 to 478, at Pittsburgh. Morningstar averaged 15 20-32 with high run of 65, Sutton averaging 15 13-31 with high run of 58.

February 5—William F. Hoppe, New York, retained 18-2 world's title by defeating George Sutton, of Chicago, 500 to 301, at New York City. Hoppe averaged 23 16-22 with high run of 117. Sutton averaged 15 13-31 with high run of 58.

February 27—Alfredo de Oro retained pocket billiard title by defeating Thomas Hueston, St. Louis, 600 to 356, at New York.

March 19—William F. Hoppe, New York, won 18-1 title by defeating Ora C. Morningstar, Pittsburgh, 500 to 211, at Pittsburgh. Hoppe averaged 15 20-32 with high run of 96, Morningstar averaging 6 25-31.

March 24 to April 6—Joseph Mayer, Brooklyn, won national amateur 18-2 championship tournament at Union League Club, Philadelphia. Mayer had high run of 130, high single average of 23 4-18, and grand average of 14 12-16, all being records for the amateur championship event. The final

"FAITHFUL FOUR" ENJOY FAST HUNT

Seven-Mile Drag of Deep Run Hunt Covered Yesterday in Fifty Minutes.

Owing to the driving rain that fell all day, and because of the soft footing, only "The Faithful Four" were brave enough to face the storm for a run with the Deep Run hounds yesterday.

The "meet" was scheduled for "the Viaduct" at 8:30 o'clock. The only riders to fall in line at the start were W. O. Young, Harry Beattie, Jr., Fred Campbell and B. H. Sydnor. These men came always be counted on, no matter what the weather is. The first cart was in Monument Annex, then to Patterson Avenue, and along Patterson Avenue to Shaffer's, where the riders found about six inches of water at the "take off" side. The course then lay along Cary Street Road to Sunny Side, and through Sunny Side to George B. Bull's, where there is a natural fence separating the paddocks. Owing to the heavy going in Bull's, the horses were pulled up, and the hounds were next thrown at Woodlawn, and thence on to Edgewood, and Patterson Avenue. The hounds were given a short check at Patterson Avenue, and then thrown in at Adams Place and Westview to the Country Club of Virginia. This was the fastest hunt ever held by the Deep Run. The distance, about seven miles, being covered in fifty minutes.

Those riding were: W. Ormond Young, M. F. H., riding Wings; Harry Beattie, Jr., whip, riding Iron Prince; Fred Campbell, whip, riding Lady; B. H. Sydnor, riding Her Grace.
